AT LAST AN ANSWER!

In answer to the challenge from the CARBON editors last week, I propose the following statement. I also urge all students to attend the Coffee Hour next Monday, and to vote in the mock election next Wednesday.

Barry Goldwater has been labeled a radical and a reactionary. He is neither. He is a true conservative. In domestic policy he is in favor of social and economic change in accordance with the constitution and with as little federal intervention as is possible. In the field of foreign relations, he believes that it is time we take firm and decisive action against the military aggression of Red China. He also wants to eliminate foreign aid to those countries in which the aid has little chance helping the people. Barry Goldwater is the candidate for Constitutional conservatism.

FOR SHAME

It is sad that Marian College students have little or no interest in the events that concern them--even the decisions that spend their own money.

A special meeting held to present a badly needed clarification of the N.F. and N.S.A. was held Monday night and a surprising total of 26 students attended.

Don't complain you "I couldn't care less" 609 students who refuse to take an interest.

I bet we all know who will complain loudest no matter how the Student Board decides.

You cry for representation--representation of what--disinterest.

CARBON editors:

Judging from some of the walks of the girls it is evident that they took Miss Drew's column "Let's Swing" to heart--or should I say hind.

SMOCK!! A MOCK...

Goldwater or Johnson--who is going to win? What are the issues in this election? Are civil rights, foreign policy, morality, responsibility or government spending the issues? What do you think?

Well, why not find out what the professional politicians think the issues are? Monday night, Oct. 26, prominent Democratic and Republican speakers will discuss the issues of this campaign. The speakers will be either the presidents of the Young Democrats and Young Republicans of Marion County or the district chairman of the two organizations. You will have a chance to hear the issues discussed by men who are in the business. The Coffee Hour will begin with a ten minute speech by each representative, followed by a question and answer period. The show begins at 8:00 P.M.

Whether you are twenty-one or not, you will be able to vote in the mock election Wednesday, Oct. 28. The balloting will take place in front of the auditorium. The results will be published in the Oct. 30 CARBON. Y, C. S.

Dear CARBON editors:

This has definitely got to stop! It outrages us!! Who would expect it of mature college students on a Catholic campus? Previous regulations concerning this have been changed to specifically avoid such reoccurrences. Since I have been at Marian I have never heard of anything so foolish. I've heard of such goings on at I.U. or Eastern colleges but it's unbelievable that it could happen here. It is our hope that the rules will not be completely revised so as to exterminate all social activities. If the situation continues, however, definite steps must and will be taken by the proper authorities to insure harmony on Marian's campus.

VARSITY-ALUMNI

On November 11 Marian's hardcourtters of bygone days return to their alma mater to test the strength of the 1964-1965 edition of the Knight's basketball team. Coach Cleon Reynold's boys have been practicing for the last five weeks and the Alumni game will provide their first test of the upcoming season.

Meanwhile the "oldmen" have a mere three weeks to work themselves into the shape that led them to glory during their college days. They will try to show the "youngsters" that the type of ball played in the old days is still superior to that of the present. The outcome is a toss-up.

Admission for this game is 50¢ and may be purchased from any player or manager. Proceeds obtained will be used to defray the team's expenses for the upcoming season.

WE GOOFED

I would like to inform the CARBON staff that "supercalaphragelistic-expedialidocious" is spelled with a "ph" not a "f." If there is any doubt in anyone's mind as to the actuality of this word--don't try looking it up--it means the greatest.

The CARBON hisses:

- Jack O'Hara's custom machine.
- Anyone failing to take part in the Manuah Mixer Friday night.
- The Balding Beatle... Jack O'Donnell.
- Drac for flirting with the Soph. girls.
- Mike Hughes--what did you say about proper dress? "People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones."

The CARBON says:

- Lighter sniffing is better than glue sniffing.
- S.G.M. stands for Still Going Mad--no offense intended.

WHY THE CUT SYSTEM?

Why do we have forced attendance at class: to make sure that students attend the lecture; to guarantee that they take notes and learn what they should; or to make certain that they don't fail their courses because of their own irresponsibility? There are understandable reasons, we believe, in defense of the status-quo; but, if we consider the facts more closely, do we really find these defenses satisfactory?

First, granted that the present system in spite of loopholes and only partial enforcement does guarantee usual attendance in class, it still remains true that physical presence at a lecture is not in itself learning and is not even a good indication of knowledge. A genuinely educational lecture means a competent teacher speaking knowledgeably to interested students, not a hackneyed orator mumbling away to captive diploma seekers. Attendance is not learning.

Secondly, a student who is of college age and college capability already has enough sense of responsibility to have made it through high school and into college, and within a few years he will be entirely on his own and be entirely responsible for every thing he does. Considering these past and future responsibilities, it is illogical that during his college years a student is not even considered capable of responsibly choosing the class lecture he feels he needs...The cut system should be abolished.
